Commissioner Vincent questioned the plans emphasis on the redevelopment of buildings. He noted the rehabilitation of buildings can be a very expensive undertaking. Staff Member Carstens reviewed the Sustainable Design Assessment Team process. She noted that the most sustainable building is the building that is already built. She reviewed the cost savings gained from the embodied energy and existing materials used in rehabilitation projects. She stated that rehabilitation projects do tend to cost more, but more money is invested in labor for rehabilitation projects. She explained that the labor and materials used in rehabilitation projects are more often local and therefore benefit the local economy. Staff Member Tauke explained how rehabilitating buildings in older neighborhoods also has a social benefit.

Commissioner Vincent explained the program also places an emphasis on getting people into homes, but does not provide enough support for the maintenance of homes. Staff Member Tauke reviewed the homeownership and maintenance programs offered by the Housing and Community Development Department. She stated those individuals that have taken advantage of Housing programs have experienced low turnover rates. Staff Member Carstens explained the Housing and Community Development Department also offers financial and maintenance counseling to help new homeowners.

Staff Member Tauke reviewed the Community Development Block Grant Program.

Chairperson Prochaska asked whether the Millwork District will be influenced by the impediments to fair housing. Staff Member Carstens explained Fair Housing rules will apply to the Millwork District; however, the Millwork District will most likely be market rate.

Commissioner Winterwood questioned how the Housing and Community Development Department will accomplish the Consolidated Plan's inspection enforcement, neighborhood revitalization and job goals. Staff Members Carstens and Tauke reviewed the existing and planned measures for compliance.

Commissioner Winterwood noted the Consolidated Plan is inconsistent with the City Council's decision to decrease the number of housing vouchers. Staff Member Tauke reviewed the Section 8 voucher reduction and how Community Development Block Grant dollars are spent. She explained the decision will improve the City's ability to provide service. Staff Member Carstens stated the reduction will still provide assistance to those families in need of housing. She explained by reducing the caseload, the program can be better managed and Section 8 participants will receive better service.

Commissioner Vincent questioned the transient school population, which he believed to be strongly influenced by the Section 8 program. Staff Member Carstens explained the decrease in vouchers will allow more focus on the administrative and enforcement aspects of the program and make sure the rules are being followed properly. She explained those people in poverty will have a better chance of getting out of poverty as a result.
