Letter of support.pdf;

Good morning, Jenni:

Welcome back and Happy New Year! I don’t know if this is appropriate at this point or not, but I recently had a conversation with Amy Unmacht, director of the Foundation for Dubuque Public Schools, regarding our City of Dubuque operating grant proposal. The Foundation has become a key partner in making it possible for district students to attend our SchoolBus Performance Series, so they have provided a letter in support of our proposal. Although Dubuque schools have been frequent/regular attendees of the SchoolBus program since the program's 2014 inception, our relationship with local schools has strengthened since 2018 due to an alliance with FDPS. I have attached their letter of support here for what it might be worth at some point in the determination process. Thank you.

Arts & Cultural Affairs Coordinator
City of Dubuque

Dear Ms. Petersen-Brant,

In 2008 the Iowa Department of Education ruled that Iowa schools can no longer charge fees for field trips. Under the state law, field trips that are tied to classroom instruction fall under the umbrella of tuition, which should be paid by the state and if an activity is not tied to the curriculum, it should not be held during the school day. This eliminated most school field trips unless outside funding sources were secured.

The mission of the Foundation for Dubuque Public Schools (FDPS) is to enhance student achievement by providing funding for projects and programs not covered by the school district’s budget. In the fall of 2018 the FDPS formed a partnership with the University of Dubuque (UD) and the Heritage Center to give Dubuque Community School District (DCSD) students the opportunity to experience a live performance at the UD Heritage Center that correlated with their classroom curriculum.

School officials recognize the importance of field trips and the FDPS has been able to provide equity across the district by sending entire grade levels to performances at the UD Heritage Center. Information taken from a National Education Association (NEA) magazine states that

“Today’s students are visual learners and a field trip lets them touch, feel, and listen to what they’re learning about, [which helps them] build on classroom instruction, gain a better understanding of topics, build cultural understanding and tolerance, and expose them to worlds outside their own.”

Caryllan Assante, executive director for Student & Youth Travel Association (SYTA) and SYTA Youth Foundation, says field trips are particularly important for disadvantaged students, as they provide students with unique opportunities that level the playing field. “Field trips give diverse and financially-in-need students equal opportunity to experience things outside classroom that their families may not be able to afford.” A field trip can also be the first trip a student takes without their parents, so it builds independence, as well.
During the 2019 – 2020 school year the FDPS with a partnership with the UD Heritage Center was able to send five entire grade levels of students in the DCSD to a live performance. These performances impacted approximately 4,000 students in the public schools that otherwise might not have had an opportunity to attend a live performance. Below is some feedback from staff that attended performances.

“My students were engaged and loved being able to see first-hand actors performing! Having this opportunity was a first for many of my students. They were energized by the excitement and anticipation of leaving the school environment. Anytime students can access real-world experiences, it helps support academic concepts and understanding.”

“Most of my students had not attended a play or performance like this before. It was a great opportunity and experience.”

“The best part of the trip was the way fun was incorporated into learning. Students were completely engaged, but able to recall new concepts they learned when we discussed the trip back in the classroom. Concepts tied in perfectly with our materials and motion science unit.”

The FDPS recognizes the importance of out of the classroom experiences and has a goal to provide every student in the DCSD a hands on learning experience that supports their grade level curriculum that can be connected to their classroom learning. This goal can only be achieved with partnerships with organizations such as the UD Heritage Center.

For the 2020-2021 school year we had four performances already set for students to attend. Unfortunately, the pandemic and social distancing policies will not allow students to attend these performances this year. We look forward to providing this experience for students again in the near future.

Please accept this letter as support of the UD Heritage Center and the opportunities they provide to students and other community members in the Dubuque.

Sincerely,

Zach Hodge
