NEW BUSINESS

1. City Council Meeting
Coordinator Alleyne shared the details of items expected to be covered at the upcoming City council meeting which included the Arts and Humanities Month proclamation, the Commission's recommendation of the Arts and Cultural Master Plan and the staff presentation for the Master Plan. It was then decided that Commissioner Henkels would accept the proclamation and present the letter from the commission recommending the Arts and Cultural Master Plan to the City Council. Alleyne encouraged the commissioners to attend the City Council meeting as the issue being discussed would be important moving forward.

2. Arts and Humanities Month
Commissioner Riedel and Gregory produced an audio recording encouraging listeners to support the arts locally. The final audio file was made available to all commissioners and staff to listen to and was sent to KDTH, CATand RIVER ROCK. Alleyne discussed her idea for a social media campaign showing local arts, artists and organizations participating in the arts. The photos shared on Facebook and Instagram would feature the American's for the Arts and the City of Dubuque's hashtag. She hoped that this effort would be supported by the local and cyber arts community. The commissioners supported the idea and recommended several organizations that had programing set for the month of October that could be featured on social media.

3. Grants
   - The commissioners questioned Alleyne on the state of disbursement of funds with regard to the Operating and Special Project grants. She informed them that the process was temporarily halted and under review by the City Manager. The resumption of disbursement would begin only after the review process had concluded. Chairwoman Riedel expressed concern about the delay and recommended that if the matter was not resolved soon that grant recipients should be notified.

- A letter was submitted by Studio Works to change the date of their Special Project “Arts Shanties”. Commissioner Siegert questioned if the object of the application had been changed, and if the change in timing made a significant difference. Commissioner Schmitz noted that although it would take place at a different location and on a different date, the meaning would be the same. Chairwoman Riedel stated that as long as the project was done within the grant cycle the change wouldn’t pose a problem. The Commission agreed to accept the change, with clarification of the dates and stipulated that the bills for this even must also fall within this granting cycle. Commissioner Henkels moved that with the clarification of dates and cycle we accept this change. Commissioner Siegert seconded it.

- Commissioner Schmitz commented on guidelines from the Iowa Arts Council volunteer panelist program form. He encouraged all commissioners find and fill out the IAC form, and consider it as a guideline for the commission to emulate during its grant review process. His suggestion included considering also using volunteer panelists from out of the city. Discussion followed on interest and availability of panelists from outside of the city. Commissioner Schmitz made a variety of recommendations based on best practices used at the Iowa Arts Council and recommended that we adopt policies as needed. Alleyne reminded the commission that she had a meeting scheduled with the Grant Services and Artists Programs Manager, Veronica O’Hern in Des Moines on October 5th to discuss the transition to peer review panels for adjudicating grants. The commissioners agreed to review the current materials used in the Operating Support grant and come prepared to discuss at the next meeting.

4. Snow Sculpting Festival Update

Commissioner Armstrong informed commission of the details available for the snow sculpting event. The tentative dates for the festival is Jan 13-17th and the location of the sculpting has also been finalized. She reiterated that the goal is to be in partnership with the National Mississippi River Museum as they also have an event that takes advantage of the season. The winner of the event will represent Iowa to the National snow sculpting event in Geneva. Alleyne mentioned that the contract was being reviewed by the legal department and could not be signed until it has been approved.
